Hello fellow naturists.

Lots of news this month:

- Our first 'X'mas in July' was a great success.
- Our ablution block is well on the way.
- We are planning some great occasions to come, here at Elephant Rock
- We are on the net at last!

We'll take the last item first for that is the most important – our presence on the World Wide Web. You will find us at <http://www.elephantrock-naturally.com.au>. Although this is not entirely finished and already slightly out of date, it is well worth a visit. We intend to get it up to date and then and keep it up to date with happenings here past, present and future. So keep clicking away and visit us on the net as well as here in person.

We celebrated our first X'mas in July in great style. There were 29 of us all together and amazingly enough we all fitted into the common room at four tables set up for the repast. The food was prepared by an internationally renowned chef (David) and an over-the-Tasman couple (Mike & Hailey). The menu was previously set out by LS (Sue) and not withstanding some setbacks such as the rotisserie giving up the ghost halfway through the roasting process, the end result was something to behold! The menu? Feast your eyes and drool!

| Entrée | Roast pumpkin soup, hot. |
| Main | Roast beef, roast pork, roast chicken, sliced leg ham. |
| Sweets | Wine trifle, steamed X'mas pudding, X'mas cake. Coffee, after dinner mints. |

Of course Santa came with presents. To earn the present the recipient had to provide some entertainment for Santa. Poetry, jokes, songs and dance were the result. Amazing what talent there is hidden in the Naturist movement! Maybe some enterprising entrepreneur should tap in and make a million!

After the fab repast everyone got rocking (after all this is Elephant Rock) and the night was spent in excellent rowdy style befitting the occasion.

That night few saw the sunset – so colourful.

The next morning even the natives came to have

The Breakfast menu on Sunday morning took into account the possibility of some slight headaches and was not served too early.

Sunday lunch was served up from the bountiful leftovers from the night before.

Can this be improved on? We will certainly try next year. So be in it with us!

Now to the coming events.

Saturday 27th September...

SCENIC RIM WINE TRAIL TOUR

Departing Elephant Rock at 9am by bus, our first visit will be to two wineries at Harrisville. Then onto Marburg on the Warrego Highway where we will experience a tour of a winery that produces wine from other growers. A Ploughman's lunch will be served along with wine tasting. Next stop will be Purga on the homeward run. These wineries were recently presented on the 'Great Southeast' by Channel 7. Mr. Alford winery and Lavender Farm complete the circuit to finish off the day.

Package cost includes Accommodation, Tour and Ploughman's Lunch:

| | | |
|------------------------------------|----------|--------------|
| Bed (per couple) | $135.00 | (per couple) |
| Caravan with power (per couple) | $100.00 | (per couple) |

Those patrons who wish to arrive Friday from 4pm, a 'Special Price' of $30.00 for bed per couple and $10.00 for campers and caravaners applies. This Friday night rate is for tour patrons only.

On Friday evening nibblies will be served on the deck between 5.30pm and 6.30pm.

On Saturday night, following dinner there will be Birthday cake served with coffee and tea for our birthday boy Jaak.

Book early as seats for the tour are limited to 20.

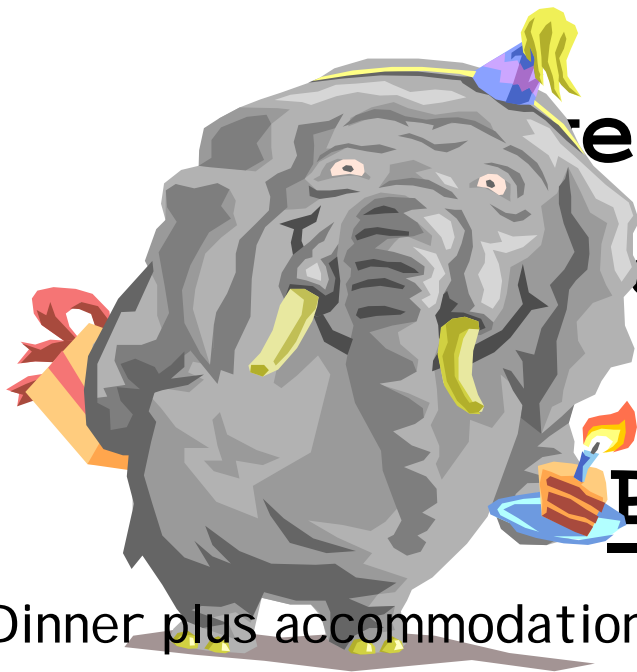

Wednesday 31st December...Thursday 1st January

ELEPHANT ROCK'S 1ST

And new

Year

celebration!

Party theme

Dinner plus accommodation costs will apply on the night. A BBQ with an assortment of salads and desserts will be served. Prices to be advised. Book early so you don't miss out on the fun!

Building work

The Ablution Block to cater to the needs of caravaners, campers and day visitors is well on the way to completion. The Inside has still to be fitted (eg. Showers, toilets and basins) but this shouldn't take too long – although as most parents know things could take longer when relying on ones children. It took long enough waiting for the tradesmen to complete the actual building!

Tree clearance of dangerous trees took place some weeks ago! Thankfully the weather was pleasant enough for the workers to be in 'uniform'!

So again we must finish for now and bid you all adieu. Hope to see you here sometime soon. Cheers and good health,

Sue & Jaak
